As long as there are no signs of intentional abuse on the baby, no information is required of the person leaving the baby. Any knowledge of the date of birth, race, parent medical history, child's health or anything that would be useful to the child's caregiver would be greatly appreciated (such as diabetes, HIV or other family medical history).

NEW LEGISLATION

As of July 1, 2018, new legislation was passed to include newborn safety devices. To educate yourself further on what is defined within this legislation, please visit <https://tinyurl.com/mvktk9vx>. Here are a few brief summaries:

- A An emergency medical services provider shall, without a court order, take custody of a child who is, or who appears to be, not more than thirty (30) days of age if the child is voluntarily left with the provider by the child's parent, in a newborn safety device that has been approved, or if the parent does not express an intent to return.
 - B An emergency medical services provider who takes custody of a child under this section shall perform any act necessary to protect the child's physical health or safety.
 - C Any person who in good faith voluntarily leaves a child with an emergency medical service provider, or in an approved newborn safety device, is not obligated to disclose the parent/person(s) name.
 - D A hospital that approves the operation of a newborn safety device, and meets the set forth requirements, is immune from civil liability for an act or omission relating to the operation of the newborn safety device unless the act or omission constitutes gross negligence or willful or wanton misconduct.
 - E A newborn safety device described in subsection (a)(1)(C) may continue to operate without meeting the conditions set forth in subsection (a)(1)(B).
- NOTE: Once the baby is examined and given medical treatment (if needed), the Indiana Department of Child Services will take the baby into custody through Child Protective Services where it will be placed with a caregiver.
